Re: Spray Smart Valves

Dear Jeff:

Thank you for allowing us to run trials with your Spray Smart Product. We have been successfully irrigating with them now for approximately 3 months with no problems. The potential for this type of technology is exciting for the landscape industry. Every day we are challenged with difficult irrigation situations such as low pressure, different light exposures, and mixed plant types on a single station. I am excited to have this tool to sell to my customers as a low cost alternative to expensive irrigation retrofits. Especially interesting to me are the valves that can be installed directly into an existing sprinkler. The ease of installation is really fantastic. When you are ready, I can take the product to our Productions Specialists to conduct more trials, and begin to educate our teams on the benefits of your product.

Congratulations on inventing the Spray Smart Technology. I look forward to seeing this product hit the market.

Sincerely,

Joshua Dake
